

The Institute for Ethics & Society
presents

The Notre Dame Happiness, Virtue & the Meaning of Life Conference

Friday 25 August 2017

The Institute for Ethics & Society is delighted to present the Notre Dame Happiness, Virtue & the Meaning of Life Conference. Research in the humanities and social sciences suggest that individuals who feel they belong to something bigger and better than themselves - a family with a long history and the prospect of future generations, a spiritual practice, work on behalf of social justice - often feel happier and have better life outcomes than those who do not. This conference will explore big philosophical questions about cultivating virtue, finding happiness, and understanding what makes life meaningful.

The conference is funded by the Fulbright Commission and presented in partnership with the John Templeton Foundation Project Virtue, Happiness, & the Meaning of Life at the University of Chicago.

Prof. Candace Volger
University of Chicago

Prof. Moira Gatens
University of Sydney

Prof. Rick Benitez
University of Sydney

Prof. Catriona Mackenzie
Macquarie University

Dr Melissa Merritt
University of NSW

- DATE: Friday 25 August 2017
TIME: 10am - 5pm (Lunch and refreshments will be provided)
VENUE: The University of Notre Dame Australia, Broadway Campus,
Moorgate Director's Boardroom, 10 Grafton Street, Chippendale 2008
COST: Free!

Please RSVP to ies@nd.edu.au by 18 August.

For further details: nd.edu.au/research/ies/home. Inquiries: Tim Smartt timothy.smartt@nd.edu.au